About The Conference

The primary focus of the conference will be the applications of data analytics and machine learning in public procurement and supply chain management. The purpose of this event is to bring both scholars and professionals to share and discuss emergent issues in the role of data analytics in mediating the relationship between digital procurement and supply chain performance.

It will emphasize the most cutting-edge methods proposed in recent years in the context of data mining techniques (text mining and cluster analysis), artificial intelligence, and the role of new technologies (e.g., IoT, blockchains, edge computing) and the latest scientific knowledge areas (e.g., analytics, big data, risk management) in procurement and supply chain.
